Re: Supercross Lites Eligibility

Designated Supercross Lites riders who competed in the Supercross class in select 2010 events will remain eligible for the Supercross Lites class in 2011, regardless of where they finish in the Supercross class points, provided that after the completion of the 2010 Championship season they are not advanced to the Supercross class through Lites points or Lites championships won.

A Designated Supercross Lites rider is defined as a Lites licensed rider who has declared a region and is actively competing in that region. AMA Racing in its sole discretion will determine if a Lites rider meets the “designated Supercross Lites rider” criteria.
